Counselor's Corner

If you have seen your children doing nice things at home they are practicing the Expectations that we say in our morning assembly each day. Your children are learning to see each person as special individuals and to treat each other with respect and politeness. We encourage each other to do their best and congratulate them when they do so. We not only repeat these words daily, but their meaning is practiced in the classrooms and on the playground. Our school consists of a risk free learning environment, where your child is kept safe and loved. Ask your child to repeat our Great Expectations. They do an excellent job each day. Then watch as they put these Expectations into practice. You will like what you see!
